SOCIETIES @ AIL

(a) AIL Moot Court Society

Mooting is the oral presentation of a legal issue or problem against an opposing counsel and before a Judge. It is perhaps the closest experience that a student can have whilst at university to appearing in a Court. Mooting helps in building the confidence in public speaking, general research, and presentation skills. Keeping in mind the relevance of mooting for law students the Army Institute of Law takes keen interest in this segment of law-learning via its Moot Court Society whereby two Intra-Institute Moot Court Competitions are conducted annually. One of these is the Novices Moot Court Competition which is held exclusively for the participation of First year students with the aim of making them shed their inhibitions regarding mooting. The other competition is the Intra-Institute Moot Court Competition which is open for participation by students from second year to the fifth year. The Institute is also a proud host of its Annual National Inter-College Moot Court Competition-Checkmate, in which teams from various National and other prestigious law colleges participate. The Institute awards the winners of the competition with certificates, cash prizes and a running trophy. Besides hosting these events the institute also participates in various National and International Moot Court Competitions.

(b) AIL Debating Society

The AIL debating society encourages students to develop their oratory skills by their participation in various Intra and inter institute debates, extempore competitions and MUNs. An Intra-Institute Debate is organized every year to encourage maximum participation of the students. The Institute awards the winners of the competition with cash prizes and a running trophy.

(c) Legal Aid Cell

The avowed purpose of the Legal Aid Cell is to promote access to the legal system, whereby every person has access to the legal process irrespective of social or economic incapacity. The Army Institute of Law Legal Aid Cell is headed by the faculty coordinator and students. The cell endeavors to sensitize students to the problems being faced by the indigent and inculcate a sense of social responsibility in the students. Further, the course is meant to act as a platform for introducing the students to functioning of the legal system. The Legal Aid Initiative at AIL has been fashioned not as a mere means of aiding litigation, but as an outreach program directed at community welfare. Since a majority of our fellow countrymen do not enjoy easy access to legal services, the cell seeks to address this problem by dispensing free legal and para-legal services. The mandate of AIL Legal Aid seeks to:

- Assist the general public in better interpretation of the rights bestowed upon them and spread awareness.
- Play a constructive role in counseling people opting for legal recourse.
- To encourage pre-litigation services and out of Court settlements.
- To undertake research and development programs, while also serving as a depository of legal matters.
- To serve as a potent platform where people can inquire about their grievances in person or through the online portal

(d) Centre for research in Corporate Law & Governance (CRCLG)

Centre for research in Corporate Law & Governance (CRCLG), is created with the objective to promote interdisciplinary research in the field of corporate law & governance. The purpose of the CRCLG focuses on following aspects: •To promote comprehensive research preparing the students for viewing the world in an interdisciplinary manner, endowing them with analytical skills to critically evaluate laws on corporate law & governance. •To conduct study of corporate law and governance within its economic, business and legal context, with particular regard to how corporate law and governance mechanisms facilitate or inhibit economic activity. •To provide a new way of thinking about the growing challenges in corporate law & governance and how to respond to them. •To conduct workshops, seminars, conferences, panel discussions, guest lecturers in order to adopt an explicitly comparative approach and develop strategies for ensuring sustainable development and success in the most competitive world. .
